Through the generous provision of the legislature, the Library has been able to obtain about 125 volumes of rare English law reports, and also to make arrangements for the completion of the set of these reports at an early date. Additions have also been made to the sets of the session laws of many of the States and Territories, the addition to the annual appropriation enabling the Library to take advantage of most of the opportunities that have been open during the year for the acquisition of such as the Library did not possess.

The Library is indebted to Mr. Charles C. Soule for the effort to secure to the Library, during his recent visit to Europe, certain publications of the English government, which are needed. He succeeded, through the kindness of the Hon. James Russell Lowell, American minister, in obtaining the assurance from the officers of Parliament that the set of journals of the House of Lords and the House of Commons now in the Library should be made complete to date.

A somewhat extensive correspondence with individuals and learned societies during the year has resulted in the donation of many valuable publications, especially in the departments of local history, genealogy and science. The catalogue of additions appended will show how numerous and valuable these donations have been, and also the names of those who have so generously enriched the Library.

The Acting Librarian is indebted to His Honor, Samuel A. Green, mayor of the city of Boston, and to the Hon. Hamilton A. Hill, for many practical and valuable suggestions; to the Hon. George F. Hoar for the interest he has taken in securing a systematic distribution of the publications of the United States government, as well as for the readiness with which he has aided the Library in securing such publications; to the Hon. Leopold Morse for a large number of congressional publications; and to the large number of persons who have shown their interest in the Library and aided in enlarging or perfecting its collection.

The appended catalogue contains the largest number of volumes that have been added to the Library in any one year since it was established. The attention of the members of the legislature is directed to the character of these additions and to the sources from which they were received.

JOHN W. DICKINSON,
Librarian ex officio.
